CRD libraries launch 'Re-Imagine Your Library' campaign

Cariboo Regional District, B.C. – The Cariboo Regional District library network is launching a public engagement process as they strategically plan for the future. Residents are asked to re-imagine their libraries and provide feedback through a variety of activities throughout November and December 2018.

All are invited to take the online survey or join in the Question of the Week series through the displays at the library or the library Facebook pages. Librarians will also be going through the Quesnel, 100 Mile House and Williams Lake branches periodically with short polls for patrons to answer. All the activities encourage participants to share what they like about the library and what they would like to see improved.

This public engagement process is part of the CRD's goal of developing a strategic plan for library services, as outlined in the service's 2018 and 2019 five-year business plan \(p. 47\). Strategic plans are a common planning tool for libraries. A strategic plan will provide direction and focus for the development of library services and inform future business plans. The plan will incorporate feedback gathered through this process and through an internal engagement process with library staff.

The Cariboo Regional District Library is an integrated public library system that currently provides library services to residents of the regional district through fifteen branch libraries.
